Sponsored by Representative Marjorie Decker and Senator Brendan Crighton

What is RAFT?

Residential Assistance for Families in Transition (RAFT) is a homelessness prevention program administered by the Executive Office of Housing and Livable Communities (HLC, previously the Department of Housing and Community Development), (line item 7004-9316). RAFT provides short-term financial assistance to extremely and very low-income households that are experiencing housing instability and homelessness. RAFT helps families, unaccompanied youth, elders, people with disabilities, and other households regain housing stability when facing eviction, foreclosure, loss of utilities, and other housing emergencies in the face of decreased income and/or increased expenses.

The program serves families and individuals with incomes at or below 50% of the area median income, with at least half of the annual funding targeted to households with incomes below 30% of area median income. RAFT funding is available to eligible Massachusetts residents, regardless of immigration status, and can be used for a variety of needs, including rent or mortgage arrears, apartment start-up costs, utility costs, or other expenses to help households obtain and maintain stable housing.

RAFT benefits currently are capped at $10,000/year. With Governor Healey's FY24 budget proposal to allow households to access only $7,000 of assistance over the course of 24 months, the current disruption in Chapter 257 eviction protections (which expired on March 31, 2023), and the drying up of COVID-related rental assistance resources such as the federally-funded Emergency Rental Assistance Program, this bill is more important than ever.

What would the RAFT bill do?

This bill would put the RAFT homelessness prevention program into state statute, and ensure that benefits are available to households early in a housing or utility crisis. The bill also seeks to streamline access to RAFT, improve cross-agency collaboration, and allow households to access the resources needed to clear arrearages without arbitrary caps on assistance levels.

This bill would require HLC to coordinate with the Department of Transitional Assistance (DTA), Massachusetts Interagency Council on Housing and Homelessness (ICHH) member agencies and offices, and the RAFT Regional Administering Agencies (RAAs) to further simplify the RAFT application process, provide additional support services to applicants and participants, better promote upstream homelessness prevention and expanded housing stability, and track and report important program data and outcomes for participant households over the first 24 months after receiving assistance.

If enacted, the bill will ensure that more households across the Commonwealth remain stably housed without receiving notices to quit or eviction and shut-off notices, and without experiencing unnecessary housing instability and trauma.

Why is the RAFT bill needed?

Since its inception in FY05, RAFT has never been codified in state statute, leaving it vulnerable to the preferences of the Executive Branch and to the annual budget process. Additionally, since August 2022, DHCD (now, HLC) has required households to have a notice to quit, or be further along in the eviction process, before qualifying for back rent benefits from the program. This requirement overturns changes initially made in the FY20 budget with the successful establishment of the Upstream RAFT pilot program, and moves in the opposite direction of expanded access to upstream benefits during the peak of the COVID-19 pandemic that included upstream utility assistance and upstream foreclosure assistance. This bill would make Upstream RAFT benefits a permanent part of the program, and would allow households to access assistance with forward rent payments before already falling behind on rent. DHCD also has restricted access to forward rent so that only families and individuals already behind on rent can get help with future rent payments, with a cap of one month of forward rent assistance.

Strengthening RAFT is vital to ensuring that the families and individuals who are housed but at the risk of housing loss and utility shut-off will be eligible to receive critical benefits. Timely and appropriately scaled resources can hold back the wave of negative consequences and trauma generated by eviction, foreclosure, and utility-shut-off. Enhancing RAFT is key to promoting housing equity, as Black, Latinx, and other households of color across the Commonwealth are impacted disproportionately by the triplet crises of housing instability, systemic racism, and the reverberating consequences of the COVID-19 pandemic.
